

Stop Loan Sharks Reporting App Launched

A smartphone app has been launched to make it quicker and easier for people to report loan sharks and access support.

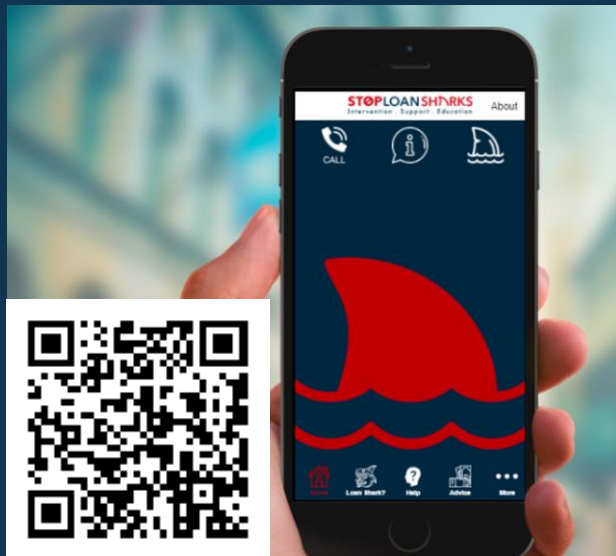

The Stop Loan Sharks app, launched by the England Illegal Money Lending Team (IMLT), includes a contact form and phone number to report loan sharks, as well as information to help victims of illegal money lenders to get support.

It also offers users advice on the tell-tale signs that someone is a loan shark. These include offering cash loans without any paperwork, charging extortionate interest, taking bank cards and passports as security, and threatening behaviour or violence to get money.

The app was funded from cash recovered from loan sharks under the Proceeds of Crime Act (POCA).

It provides information to various frontline professionals who may meet loan shark victims in the course of their work, such as debt advisors, social workers and housing staff.

These professionals can read information on how to recognise the signs that a client may be involved with a loan shark and advice on how to respond.

Other features include a search tool to help users find credit unions and legitimate lenders, links to confidential debt advice services and push notifications about loan shark arrests and court cases.

Download the Stop Loan Sharks App for free from the App Store and Google Play or scan the QR Code on your phone!

Couple sentenced for illegal money lending

A husband and wife team ran a lucrative illegal money lending business in the Stockton area and netted over £500k in loan repayments.

Alan Fromson, 80, and Joyce Fromson, 78 were both sentenced to 10 months in prison, suspended for two years at Teesside Crown Court on November 17.

The pair from Carlton, Stockton, pleaded guilty to two charges of illegal money lending between July 2007 and October 2019.

The couple ran a legitimate business until 2007 when they failed to renew their licence that would enable them to lend to customers legally.

Simon Mortimer, prosecuting, said they issued loans worth around £382,800, earning £214,044 in interest payments and netting a total of £573,457 over a 12-year period.

In interview, Alan told investigators “the money goes straight into our pockets and we could get away with it, so we did” and “we have had a very, very good living out of it”.

The couple explained they had copied the Provident model and ran their own separate money lending rounds, with Alan operating in the Thornaby area and Joyce in Stillington and Carlton. Read the full story here.

Exeter man sentenced for illegal money lending

An Exeter man who exploited vulnerable people has been given a suspended sentence.

Robert Ferguson, 69, from Exeter, admitted running an unlawful money lending business and was jailed for 30 weeks, suspended for two years at Exeter Crown Court on November 4.

He was also ordered to do 180 hours unpaid community work and pay £300 costs.

The case was prosecuted by the IMLT in partnership with Devon, Somerset and Torbay Trading Standards and Devon and Cornwall Police.

Simon Mortimer, prosecuting, told the court that Ferguson had been running his illegal money lending scheme between April 2014 and November 2019.

He charged exorbitant rates of interest to friends or people he met in pubs and received tens of thousands of pounds in loan repayments, which was paid directly into his bank by more than 20 people.

His customers in Exeter, Devon called him 'The Bank of Fergs'.

The court heard how some victims were given details of Ferguson's bank account, so they could pay him as soon as they got their benefit payments.

One victim met Ferguson in a pub and took out loans to pay for general living expenses such as food and rent. He ended up repaying £6,797 on loans totalling £1,575. Read the full story here.

Searches were carried out at the properties where officers seized electronic devices.

The suspects, two men aged 31 and 33 and a 32-year-old woman, have been released on bail to appear at Tameside Magistrates' Court on Thursday, January 14, 2021.

Loan shark survivor wins hero award after sharing her story to help other victims

A Teesside mum who fell into the clutches of an unscrupulous loan shark has been awarded a Chartered Trading Standards Institute (CTSI) Hero Award for sharing her experience to encourage other victims to come forward.

Becky found herself in financial hardship and borrowed £50 from someone she considered a friend to buy school uniforms for her children but ended up repaying an estimated £35,000.

She bravely spoke about her horrific ordeal of becoming entrapped by a loan shark, which led to attempts to take her own life after falling in debt and receiving terrifying threats from an ominous "Big Man."

Becky and her husband were both unemployed at the time, and with no access to credit cards or able to get a loan from the bank, she felt she had no option but to accept the cash from the woman posing to be her friend.

Becky said: "I had the £50 in 15 minutes. It seemed like easy money, but I didn't realise the dangers.

"The first time I was in arrears she added another £150 on top. So, you could borrow £50 one week, and owe £100 the next. But if you couldn't pay it would be £250 in a fortnight, £400 in three weeks.

"The most I ever owed was £1,500. She was taking hundreds a week off me, and I had to use food banks."

The loan shark would text Becky's kids if she was late with payments and warned they would be coming to visit unless she paid up.

The family have moved away from the loan shark and the lender is now under investigation.

Becky was nominated for the award by the IMLT.

Loan shark survivor shares story in new video

Loan shark survivor 'Bee' has shared her story in a new video to encourage others to come forward and get help.

'Bee' needed £3,000 to pay for her mum's funeral in Thailand. She had a poor credit rating and struggled to obtain credit through legitimate means. Bee was introduced to the loan shark through a friend in the Thai community whose boyfriend lent her the money.

Bee was forced to hand over £600 interest (20%) on the loan every month until she could pay off the capital. She was constantly harassed for money and she had to sell her late husband's jewellery to keep up with the payments.

Campaign launched to tackle online loan sharks

The IMLT have launched a new campaign aimed at tackling illegal money lending on the internet and warning of the dangers of online loan sharks.

The #SharkFreeSurfing campaign comes amid concerns that more people are falling prey to unscrupulous lenders online as recent statistics show one in five met their lender on social media in the first half of 2020.

Loan sharks are increasingly using social media platforms, such as Facebook, Instagram and Snapchat, to advertise their illegal loans and target potential victims.

These criminals will lure people in with seemingly attractive loan offers, but will quickly resort to intimidation, threats and violence to enforce repayment and trap borrowers in a spiral of debt.

It is hoped that the campaign will help encourage not just victims, but the wider community to report online illegal money lending activity.

A promotional graphic for the Stop Loan Sharks campaign. It features a shark emerging from a smartphone screen, which displays a social media interface with red 'X' marks over the posts. The text on the graphic includes: 'DID YOU KNOW', '1 IN 5 FIND THEIR LOAN SHARK ON SOCIAL MEDIA', 'CALL OUR 24/7 CONFIDENTIAL HELPLINE', '0300 555 2222', a QR code with the instruction 'Scan the QR code to download the Stop Loan Sharks App.', and the hashtag '#SharkFreeSurfing'. The Stop Loan Sharks logo is in the top right corner.

Foundation 92 awarded POCA funding for project

Cash confiscated from convicted loan sharks has been awarded to Foundation 92 to help fund a community project raising awareness of loan sharks.

Foundation 92's Positive Pathways programme was successful in its POCA application and will work to deliver a socially distanced early action and intervention project throughout Salford, specifically working with young people aged 16-24 and adults who are currently economically inactive or unemployed.

Staff from the charity's Education Team will utilise training from IMLT to help provide financial and budgeting support to local residents throughout the Salford community, helping Salford to thrive.

The funding received from IMLT will enable Foundation 92 to tackle crime, support family financial stability and educate the community on how to recognise illegal money lending, and how to lead a financially sustainable lifestyle.

The funding will also see Foundation 92 staff work collaboratively alongside Everton in the Community, the charitable arm of Everton Football Club, as the two organisations will join forces to offer an engaging and interactive learning experience for people at risk of illegal money lending.

Scottish Illegal Money Lending Unit Launch Charter Mark

The Scottish Illegal Money Lending Unit (SIMLU) have launched the Stop Loan Sharks Scotland Charter Mark.

The first recipients of the award are housing, care and property management company Wheatley Group and StepChange debt charity in recognition of their commitment in supporting and promoting the work of the SIMLU and for taking a zero-tolerance stance on illegal money lending within their communities.

The organisations have also pledged to work in partnership with the SIMLU to increase their reach within communities and to raise the confidence of residents to enable them to report illegal loan shark activity safely.

The launch comes as the SIMLU issue a warning to Scots to avoid borrowing from loan sharks this Christmas. As more people find themselves in financial difficulties due to the Covid-19 pandemic, illegal lenders may look to take advantage of those who are most vulnerable.

Although loans from community-based lenders may be seen as providing a quick solution for those in crisis situations, the lenders may not be authorised by the Financial Conduct Authority and could charge huge interest rates. On average, loans from illegal lenders end up costing three times as much as a legal loan.

To find out more about the work of the SIMLU and to find organisations who can provide support and advice to those in financial difficulties, visit the website or call the confidential helpline on 0800 074 0878.

Tredegar man fined for illegal money lending

Mark Dean Jenkins, aged 51 from Tredegar in Blaenau Gwent pleaded guilty to illegal money lending at Newport Magistrates' Court in a case brought by the Wales Illegal Money Lending Unit (WIMLU).

He lent £2,000 to an old school friend and neighbour who was struggling with a gambling addiction.

The friend lost his job and his marriage broke down.

He eventually lost his home and ended up sleeping rough before a charity helped him find accommodation at a hostel in Abergavenny.

Magistrates heard Jenkins threatened to "cripple him" and burn his hostel down unless he paid the money back plus £1,000 in interest.

He was fined £200 and ordered to pay £450 in court costs. His victim is now living in a flat of his own and is trying to rebuild his life.

Ryan Evans, from the Wales Illegal Money Lending Unit said: "Jenkins tried to make out he was a Good Samaritan.

"He said 'I did lend him money but I didn't charge him interest, I was just helping out a friend', but as time went on and the investigation continued the evidence was stacking up against him."

Many loan sharks are known to their victims - they could be a neighbour, a parent at the school gate or appear to be a friend at first. Call the WIMLU 24-hour hotline 0300 123 33 11.
